Numb. 3090

FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 1744.

Naples, January 7.

OUR Court is apparently in great Confusion, which is chiefly owing to a Division in the Ministry; some advising the King to join his Army immediately to that of the Spaniards, and others exhorting him to insist on his Neutrality; and, in Consequence thereof, demanding Protection of any of the English Ships that appear upon his Coast. We have received certain Information of a dreadful Earthquake which has happened lately in Calabria; this Advice, amongst other Particulars, informs us, that the Cathedral Church of Mileto, and the best Part of the City, is buried in the Ground. There still die abundance of People in the City of Reggio, and in the Villages thereabouts, especially of the Age between 15 and 30; and we also learn that this Disease has begun to make new Ravages at Messina.

Bologna, January 16. On the 13th of this Month the Commissaries of his Sardinian Majesty, viz. the Counts Bernardi and Capra, took Homage of the Inhabitants of the City of Piacenza; and that Place, and all the Country adjacent, has been delivered up to them, pursuant to the Stipulations for that Purpose in the Treaty of Worms. Our last Letters from Turin assure us, that Numbers of the French and Spanish Soldiers desert daily from Savoy, in the Habit of Pilgrims.

Lausanne, January 17. The Spanish Troops are marching from all Quarters towards Provence. The Cavalry follow the Foot, and such as are quartered in Savoy-Proper will march last. The Infant Don Philip proposes to remain himself at Chamberry till the Beginning of next Month, and will leave behind him no more than a thousand Foot and as many Horse, to cover the Hospitals, which, thro' this sudden March, in this unseasonable Juncture, are again filled with Sick. As the Spaniards have lost most of their Mules, and all their Horses for Carriage, they have been forced to send their Baggage and Equipage by Boats over the Lake of Bourquet, from whence they passed by the Rhone into Provence. Last Sunday in the Evening, a very large flat-bottom'd Barge, on board which were 1500 Sacks of Wheat and Meal, for the Use of the Spanish Magazines, sunk to the Bottom, in the Middle of the Lake of Bourquet, nobody can tell how.

Liege, January 24. The most Serene Duke Theodore of Bavaria is unanimously elected Prince and Bishop of this City, to the general Satisfaction of its Inhabitants. On the 22d, being the Evening before the Election, his Highness was secure of a Moiety only of the Votes of the Chapter, including his own, and his Brother the Bishop of Cologne's; but, when he least expected it, 12 of the Canons came in a Body, to acquaint him, that they had come to a Resolution of electing him for their Chief. If this Declaration had come a little earlier, it would have saved the Elector of Cologn's Journey, who is exceedingly indisposed, but who, notwithstanding, came hither upon this Occasion; and set out this Morning from hence for Aix la Chapelle, highly satisfied with his Brother's Election; and, after spending there two or three Days, proposes to continue his Journey to Bonn.

Dresden, Jan. 20. His Majesty having been informed, that Count Maurice of Saxony had undertaken to raise a Regiment of Hussars in Poland for the Service of the King of France, has thought fit to cause an Ordinance to be published throughout all the Palatinates of that Kingdom, forbidding any of his Subjects to inlist in that Regiment, under pain of Death. His Majesty's Journey to Warsaw remains fixed to the middle of March.

Berlin, January 24. Lord Hyndford, Minister from his Majesty of Great Britain, had Yesterday an Audience of the King; in which he informed his Majesty, that the Earl of Tyrawley, Ambassador from his Court to that of Petersburgh, had Orders from the King his Master to take Berlin in his Way, that he might execute a Commission of great Importance to his Prussian Majesty; upon which Orders have been issued here, for paying all the Honours to that Ambassador which are due to his high Character. His Majesty has given Orders for levying, with the utmost Diligence, two Regiments of Hussars of 1200 Men each. The King has already ten Regiments of these Troops, making in the whole a Corps of 12,000 Men.

The Elector Palatine has signified to the States of Julier and Bergue, that though by an antient Imperial Rescript he has a Right to demand 600,000 Florins from those two Duchies; yet he is content to accept of 550,000 in full of all Demands.

We learn from Nuremberg, that the Emperor's Officers beat up for Recruits with great Success in that City; and that the Queen of Hungary's Officers have also great Success in Listing; but then it is done privately, and at their own Quarters, the Magistrates having forbid them to beat their Drums.

Private Letters from Paris inform us, that the Court has lately published a kind of Tariff, in which is set down the new Duties, by way of Excise, upon Flesh, Butter, Eggs, Cheese, Wild-Fowl, Chickens, Pigeons, Lambs, &c. on which the People have given very signal Marks of Uneasiness and Discontent.

Last Wednesday Night a Fire broke out at a Pastry-Cook's in the Poultry, but by timely Assistance, it was extinguish'd without much Damage.
